REHEARSALS ARE WELL UNDERWAY

'Doubt' Cast Gears Up for Opening

Elizabeth Williams as "Sister James" and Lisa Harry as "Sister Aloysius Beauvier"

Aaron Ritsig "Father Brendan Flynn"

The 'Doubt' cast is hard at work putting the finishing touches on their production as they head into tech week.

This one-weekend-only event is sure to challenge audiences to question their views about the world around them and encourage them to venture into the gray area between certainty and doubt.

The cast has bonded over the shared effort of bringing this thought-provoking story to life.

Director Brooke Lawrie has taken time with each actor to help them fully understand their characters' perspectives and immerse themselves in their stories.

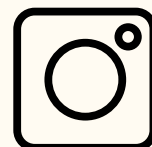

One Weekend Only

🕒 April 10, 11 & 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Documentary Film Event

YOU.SLEEP.STAY. invites audiences into the world of Fred, a Deaf, intellectually and developmentally disabled elder who has spent over 70 years in Polk State Center in Polk, PA. As the institution is set to close, and Fred prepares to leave the only home he has known since he was a young child, the film immerses viewers in the rhythms of his daily life—his experience of time, his connections with others, and the unique ways he navigates language and community.

More than just an observational portrait, YOU.SLEEP.STAY. offers a deeply felt exploration of what it means to belong, to care, and to bear witness. Through a rich cinematic approach that prioritizes presence and empathy, the film challenges audiences to reflect on the ways we build institutions, forge family bonds, and show up for our communities.

The screening will be followed by a discussion with Director David Grabias, moderated by Luka Krneta.

 April 14, 7 p.m.
